

Bryan Cranston stars in indie short 'Real Thirsty' written and directed by unknown Robert Gilbert

Joely Richardson, Jack Dee and John Douglas Thompson support

London, Sep 20, 2018 (IssueWire.com) - A desperate actor is suddenly cast alongside Hollywood movie star, Bryan Cranston, in a play in London's West End. Such close proximity to a major celebrity brings out the worst in Lee (Robert Gilbert) as he decides to make a film about a desperate actor cast in a play alongside Bryan Cranston.

Bally Bee Pictures proudly presents Real Thirsty, a short film written and directed by first time filmmaker, Robert Gilbert, and starring Bryan Cranston, Joely Richardson, John Douglas Thompson & Jack Dee. A witty and original take on zeitgeist themes of diversity and celebrity has brought a fantastic team of people together for this creative adventure which has been funded entirely by the goodwill of many. We continue the exciting journey around the International Film Festival circuit.

Real Thirsty is available to download and own from FundsUrfer.com/realthirsty from 8th October 2018.

Consulting Producer Dan Milne, Associate Producers Sheryl Trinh & Alex Spear Producer and Ali MacPhail A Bally Bee Pictures Production.

Rob Gilbert "Bryan gave me the gift of having his name attached which attracted a stellar cast and established industry professionals, however, I've also tried my best to pass the opportunity on to lesser known, up and coming cast and crew like myself. It's an incredible starting point for a first-time filmmaker and I'm determined to make the most of it"
