

The Movie Agency is born for filmmakers looking for distribution

California, Sep 5, 2018 (IssueWire.com) - A new sales agency named The Movie Agency was created for filmmakers with independent feature films to gain worldwide distribution. This new agency aims at transparency offering filmmakers the opportunity to pitch their work to reputable distributors, networks and other types of film buyers all over the world. The Movie Agency welcome all genres and movies from all nationalities.

The Movie Agency charges neither upfront fees nor expense recoupments for their services. Phil Galliano, the founder of this new business, declared "The Movie Agency is paid 12% on completed sales when filmmakers have received their payments. We believe that it was logical to offer an agreement that does not place all the risks on filmmakers."
