It is the businesses and people that we've supported that have allowed us to offer simplistic solutions for car shipping to Europe. As the years go by, we've found a common theme. Clients are looking for support when it comes to shipping cars from USA to Europe during the winter months. It is out of our desire to support the process of car shipping to Europe that we have outlined some key elements to consider when shipping overseas during the winter season.

First, the thing to consider is your ability to turn up the volume on your patience. When shipping a car to Europe there are the winter elements to consider. Setting proper expectations around delivery time is highly impactful to the success of your overseas shipping process. Since the weather may present itself as a factor in international vehicle transportation, it is highly valuable to add a few days to your deadline for delivery. The key ingredient is properly planning your car shipping process.

Considerations: What to Pay Attention to When Shipping a Car to Europe During the Winter Months:

-Savings – Many times an opportunity to qualify for a car shipping discount will present itself during the winter months, especially if both your shipping destinations from the USA to Europe are reserved simultaneously.

-Operability – Making sure your car is operable throughout the process of shipping to Europe is important, especially in cold weather. The Ship Overseas Team suggests checking your battery as well as, all car fluids before turning your vehicle over to the transporter.

Top Shipping Methods: Set your vehicle up for success when shipping a car from USA to Europe:

When it comes to capitalizing on the opportunity to ship your vehicle overseas during the winter months, there is a multitude of options. However, here are some of the top methods for shipping success!

-RoRo Shipping- RoRo ships are vessels built for shipping wheeled cargo, more specifically – shipping cars and motorcycles. The vehicles are driven on to the ship as if it were a floating parking garage. The name Roll-on/Roll-off derives from the fact that vehicles roll-on/roll-off the vessels' ramp, which is how they are driven on and off the ship. Ship Overseas' RoRo ships specialize in supporting international car shipping to Europe, especially during the winter months.

-Exclusive Container Shipping- Exclusive container means that a vehicle is shipped in a dedicated container; the vehicle doesn't share the shipping container with any other vehicles. This is a good option for weather protection as well as if the vehicle owner wants to ship their personal belongings along with their vehicle. However, exclusive container shipping is the most expensive shipping method, compared to the shared container or RoRo shipping. Although, it is an elegant choice to come out ahead of the weather!

-Enclosed Auto Shipping- Working with Enclosed Auto Shipping is a fantastic solution for the customer looking to ship luxury, exotic, specialty or vintage cars from the USA to Europe. This overseas shipping method comes with a higher investment; however, the risk factors of winter shipping are greatly reduced. By using this car shipping method, the vehicle will not be exposed to the elements. Shipping a car to the port using enclosed car shipping is ideal for a person with a higher budget. The car will normally be shipped along with 2 other vehicles. A special ramp or lift-gate is used to get the cars into the transport truck. Utilizing enclosed car shipping methods allows for the ultimate peace-of-mind.
