Transcription Certification Institute Launches Its Unique Accuracy Assessment Tool

Transcription Certification Institute or TCI has released a new Accuracy Assessment tool aimed at helping transcriptionists improve their skills.

Ellensburg, Dec 28, 2018 (Issuewire.com) - Transcription Certification Institute (TCI) pushes innovation by introducing its Accuracy Assessment Tool, a unique tool aimed towards benefiting all beginner transcriptionists. With the help of this tool, transcriptionists can check their accuracy rate and improve their transcription skills.

"Since the creation of the Transcription Certification Institute, we've been on a mission to help our transcriptionists become the absolute best they can be," said Mahesh Kumar, spokesperson of Transcription Certification Institute. "Releasing this Accuracy Assessment tool will definitely help us achieve that mission."

The TCI team knows that practicing is the key to becoming a great transcriptionist, so included in this tool is a collection of practice transcription files to get the first-hand experience. The student is able to practice on these files and get immediate results on their accuracy.

The Accuracy Assessment Tool offers an assessment of one's accuracy, spelling, and formatting (like speaker labels). Paired with the highlighter feature, every mistake is pointed out to improve the learning process and proactively improve the transcriptionist's skills. Those features allow transcriptionists to identify their areas of improvement as they practice more and increase their precision.

TCI wants these transcriptionists to also practice being fast and efficient. The tool includes the option of using a foot pedal while they transcribe 60 minutes of practice audio. Using a foot pedal allows a transcriptionist to keep both hands focused on the keyboard and maintain high productivity. Also, the wpm counter allows the transcriptionist to measure and improve typing speed.
