

Megan Winsor Rocks the Viper Room!

Los Angeles, Jan 15, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - On June 14, 2018, Megan Winsor took the stage at Los Angeles' famous Viper Room in West Hollywood with her best friend and fellow songwriter, Lillimure. This show, along with several other outings in the LA area, marks Winsor's return to the West Coast after a year of music studies in Boston. She is re-incorporating herself into the grand Los Angeles music scene and taking Californians breath away once again.

She performed some of her crowd-pleasing covers as well as tons of exciting unreleased material. And of course, Megan played her 2017 track "Caught Up". Fans can expect to start jamming out to songs like "Someone Else's Car", "CLWNS", and "Lose Myself" after we ring in the 2019 new year and continuing through June. Prepare for some serious moving and grooving with the release of her first full-length album next summer. Megan has returned to the best coast, this time for good, and she's bringing some serious sound waves with her.

Her newest single, Someone Else's Car, is available on all streaming platforms.

Upcoming shows are available on her website, www.meganwinsormusic.com

More On Megan... Megan Winsor is a Newport Beach native and lifelong singer and songwriter. She is a self-taught pianist and guitarist who shows young people that it's okay to feel alone and misunderstood. She has never given up on her love of music, no matter what hardship comes her way. Megan values quality over quantity, and everything she puts out mirrors this mantra. She is currently signed to DNT Entertainment with an Artist Development Deal and attends the University of Southern California's Thornton School of Music. She has been performing around Los Angeles while concurrently prepping for her upcoming releases. Check out her music video for "Caught Up", and keep up with her journey via social media.
