The Chief Technology Officer of MELiUS puts forth that building the iGoTrade revolved around the idea that: IT CAN BE SIMPLE. This means that the app does not require one to be a professional to navigate and comprehend its features. The app provides instant alerts with rich illustrations and live examples which will help anyone from amateurs to experts to benefit from the cryptocurrency and forex exchange market in a result-oriented way.

“We see ourselves as the trendsetter and the market leader in this space. We have so many incredible proprietary features lined up for 2019, engineered by the best minds in the industry, and we can’t wait to reveal these to our users.”

“Our industry professionals constantly share their strategies and approaches to enhance the users’ knowledge and understand the dynamics of the financial market.”

The iGoTrade will enable people around the globe to execute trades hands on while being supervised by professional traders with decades of track record. The app is designed for most traders whose primary interest is real-time access to the latest market news. Its current users already noted it as a highly-rated app for its ease of use, versatility, on top of all, the opportunity it presents turning complex zigzags into easy to follow strategies.
