

At AI Sanchez Rideshare, Every day is a Driver Appreciation Day!

Santa Clara, Mar 10, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - Rideshare drivers often feel undervalued, underappreciated and underpaid-which is extremely unfair because they provide a great deal of value and assistance to the average commuter looking for a safer alternative to travelling from one place to another. Drivers find themselves working longer hours in unsafe conditions, and these overworked individuals always find their interests sidelined and scorned in the event of a collision or accident, which may not even be their fault in the first place.

At AI Sanchez Rideshare, we seek to appreciate, applaud and celebrate the dedication and hard work rideshare drivers put into their work. We seek to help them understand how appreciated their efforts are and how much value they add to our lives. We applaud all platforms who make such efforts and provide rideshare drivers with the praise and applause that is due to them.

Needless to say, we have great respect for all rideshare drivers, be they Uber, Lyft or Uber Eats, or even Post Mates, Door Dash, Grub Hub, Eat 24-basically all those drivers who overcome all roadside obstacles and challenges to ensure our convenience and comfort. We also appreciate and admire rideshare organizations, such as Uber and Lyft, who provide rideshare drivers with a diverse pool of opportunities without discrimination.

In 2016, Lyft won our hearts with its introduction of the Driver Appreciation Day, which included a pink carpet event for the drivers, along with significant tips and monetary rewards. Even though drivers riding with Lyft and other rideshare companies have been facing a great many obstacles and challenges that are still unaddressed, it is important to appreciate that Lyft is one of those organizations that respects and values its drivers.

We at AI Sanchez Rideshare strongly believe that fostering community values, social respect and fair treatment without discrimination is extremely important to make sure drivers are content and motivated. Naturally, if you want to make sure the drivers impress the passengers with their hospitality, you must make sure that the drivers are well taken care of.

With our Make-A-Wish Foundation, we intend to make sure rideshare drivers feel appreciated, valued and nurtured regardless of their challenges, dreams and future goals. Whether you seek help with medical bills, or simply want to access new opportunities for progress and growth. Our team of competent professionals will guide your journey towards progress and success with pragmatic strategies, appreciation for your hard work and an abundance of inspiration.

Media Contact

AI Sanchez Rideshare

alsanchezrideshare@gmail.com

Source : Al Sanchez Rideshare

See on IssueWire : <https://www.issuewire.com/at-al-sanchez-rideshare-every-day-is-a-driver-appreciation-day-1627687512806040>