Get to know Interventional Pain Management Physician Dr. Brian A. Braithwaite, who serves patients in Crestview Hills, Kentucky.

New York City, Apr 5, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - Dr Braithwaite is an Interventional Pain Management Physician who is currently serving patients at Interventional Pain Specialists, a medical group practice located in Crestview Hills, Kentucky. Interventional Pain Specialists is a multidisciplinary practice of physicians and health care professionals from a variety of specialties. Their mission is to relieve pain and improve patients' quality of life by providing individually tailored, clinically proven chronic pain treatments by only the most qualified and compassionate physicians and staff.

Dr Braithwaite is board-certified in Pain Medicine and Anesthesiology by the American Board of Anesthesiology (ABA). The mission of the ABA is to advance the highest standards of the practice of anesthesiology. As the certifying body for anesthesiologists since 1938, the nonprofit organization is committed to partnering with physicians to advance lifelong learning and exceptional patient care.

Dr Braithwaite received his medical degree from Mayo Clinic College of Medicine in Rochester, Minnesota. He then went on to complete his internship and residency with Northwestern Memorial Hospital in Chicago, Illinois, followed by his fellowship training with UT-Southwestern Hospital in Dallas, Texas.

Interventional pain management is a method which utilizes pain-blocking techniques to help make day-to-day activities less difficult and effectively restore a quality of life for patients. Surgery, electrostimulation, nerve blocks or implantable drug delivery systems may be used as part of the treatment process. Dr Braithwaite has extensive training and knowledge about all types of pain management techniques. Furthermore, he is affiliated with numerous hospitals, including St. Elizabeth Medical Center North and more.

When asked why he got into private practice, Dr Braithwaite answered "After being in the academic world for most of my life, I decided that I wanted to try something different. Although I maintain a great appreciation for scholastic achievement, research pursuits and the multi-tiered learning approach of residency, the greater autonomy and personalized control of one's schedule and a patient load of private practice was more appealing."

In his spare time, Dr Braithwaite enjoys a combination of exercising, exploring the outdoors, travelling, and on occasion, watching Netflix.
