

Andrew Brown introduces new rules to Classic Parade

Accepts international driving licenses

London, May 1, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - For all your supercar hire needs, Classic Parade is your one-stop-shop. The company now owns the largest fleet of supercars in the United Kingdom and is committed to providing the best possible services to its clients throughout the country. Their superb collection includes masterpieces by the top most companies in the world including Maserati, Ford, Range Rover, BMW, McLaren, Ferrari, and even Aston Martin. There are many features that make Classic Parade stand out from its competitors; one of them is its super service provided by the highly trained staff.

The team at Classic Parade, led by owner and CEO Andrew Brown has its prime focus on making the world's best supercars available to their clients in the most fantastic condition. Their services include the delivery and collection of the vehicle at your doorstep, any sort of repair and conditioning of the vehicle anywhere near the showroom, valeting service and the most highly skilled drivers if you're not looking to drive yourself.

Previously, Classic Parade only offered these services to clients that had driving licenses issued in the United Kingdom. This year, Andrew Brown has eased up on the rules and restrictions and decided to accept international licenses as well. This change comes as part of Brown's policy to make amazing supercars available for as many people as possible because he believes that there is no better feeling in the world than sitting in the driver's seat of a supercar.

Accepting international licenses can bring about plenty of advantages to the company. Classic Parade can now make their supercars available to a large number of people and even tourists. This means that new people in the country who had to hire a supercar with a local driver before can now get a supercar for themselves and drive it around. This fulfills Andrew's purpose of spreading joy and happiness through his vehicles now being available to a greater number of people in and around the UK.

This belief combined with his love and passion for the most outstanding cars in the world is what has continued to help grow his business for the past 15 years. His experience makes him one of the most sought after car enthusiasts in the country and he takes pride in his hard work, dedication, and commitment.

It takes more than just one man to build such a huge empire and to keep it functioning smoothly. His entire team at Classic Parade is highly skilled and extremely devoted to the cause itself. They make sure that the service they provide to the clients is so impeccable that they are not left with another choice than to always come back to Classic Parade for their car hire or rental needs. Building long-lasting customer relationships are one of the most important focuses of the team and it is also something that brings Classic Parade it's most deserved fame and popularity.
