New York City, May 9, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - Dr. Caldwell is a top anesthesiologist and pain management physician who lends her skills and expertise to serve patients.

Dr. Caldwell worked in private practice for several years out West. She also served as an Assistant Professor and Researcher at Penn State in Hershey, Pennsylvania (2012-2018).

Dr. Caldwell grew up in the south hills of Pittsburgh. She graduated from Penn State with degrees in Pre-Medicine, History and Medieval Studies with double honors in History and Health Administration & Policy. Thereafter, she went on to complete her medical degree at the University of Cincinnati, followed by her residency in anesthesiology at the University of Michigan and her fellowship training in pain medicine at the University of Texas Health Science Center. She also completed an internship in internal medicine at St. Joseph Mercy Livingston Hospital in Howell, Michigan.

Dr. Caldwell is board-certified in both anesthesiology and pain medicine by the American Board of Anesthesiology (ABA). The mission of the ABA is to advance the highest standards of the practice of anesthesiology.

Dr. Caldwell is a member of the American Society of Anesthesiologists. She is also a featured lecturer of the American College of Medical Quality.

Anesthesiology, anesthesiology, anesthesia or anesthetics is the medical specialty concerned with the total perioperative care of patients before, during and after surgery. Pain management, pain medicine, pain control or algia, is a branch of medicine employing an interdisciplinary approach for easing the suffering and improving the quality of life of those living with chronic pain. As an anesthesiologist and pain management physician, Dr. Caldwell's main areas of interest include neurostimulation, cancer and pelvic pain, pediatric pain, and fibromyalgia.

It was while attending medical school at the University of Cincinnati that Dr. Caldwell first traveled to and fell in love with the beautiful land of Kentucky. In her spare time, she enjoys reading, listening to music, gardening, gourmet cooking, painting, and hanging out with her friends.
