

New Book Explores the World Pilots Navigate

Firsthand account of the life pilots lead and the silent battles they face

I'LL HAVE THE CHICKEN

Captain Robert Kavula

Pittsburg, May 27, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - Captain Robert Kavula's I'll Have the Chicken is a wonderful peek into the world a pilot navigates and the challenges that come with the job. This is a wonderful read filled with honesty and reality, making people realize pilots are unsung heroes.

In this book, Bob bares it all: the path and the obstacles along the way to becoming a pilot, and the constant journey of being a pilot. "Flying is hours of boredom punctuated by moments of stark terror." I'll Have the Chicken is a delightful mix of light moments and those punctuated by urgency and stress. Bob shares the training he underwent as a pilot. There are also moments of stark terror: near collisions in the air as well as engine and electrical failure during takeoff. His stories draw you in with hilarious conversations with other pilots on the ground as well in the air.

I'll Have the Chicken takes readers inside the cockpit and places them in his shoes. It is a thrilling experience as this book narrates what it truly is like for pilots. Bob allows readers a glimpse into a pilot's world, enlightening people on how grueling of a profession it is. Filled with raw, real experiences, there are no holds barred in this book. The honesty and transparency which is apparent in this book are truly refreshing.

Bob's book is exhibited at the BookExpo + BookCon 2019 held at the Jacob Javits Center, New York City, May 29 to 31 and June 1 and 2, 2019 at the Authors Press Booth # 1667. You may meet him personally June 1st, 2-5 p.m. where he is signing copies, with free giveaways. Like and follow Bob and get the latest updates on him and the other Authors Press authors on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter.
