

New Recording Artist - Tyler Mark Campbell

Saskatoon, May 21, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Tyler Mark Campbell is a Canadian-born musician from Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. He has performed with Sask Express, Saskatoon Summer Players, and Sterling Productions, all in Saskatchewan. He trained at a 3-year intensive Performing Arts School in Toronto, Ontario for 2 years - Randolph Academy for the Performing Arts (now Randolph College for the Performing Arts), where he learned how to dance (Jazz, Tap, Ballet), act, and sing. He also plays the guitar and is a self-taught pianist.

Tyler's "claim to fame" happened when he advertised a video-clip of himself singing Adele's song 'All I Ask' onto Facebook. It received over 150 000 views and attracted the attention of a sound designer who contacted him and requested a song collaboration with him. Tyler agreed and recorded Singer/Songwriter, Sam Smith's song 'Midnight Train' in his room using the equipment he rented from Long and McQuade. After it was mixed, Tyler uploaded it onto TuneCore who distributed it onto Spotify, iTunes, YouTube, and more.

Check out his new single 'Midnight Train'.
