Get to know Acupuncturist Dr. Helen Law, who serves patients in Princeton, New Jersey.

New York City, Jul 16, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Dr Law is an acupuncturist who is currently serving patients at Princeton Integrative Health Care, which is a full-service clinic that believes an integrative approach to healthcare can help to ease patients' symptoms, thereby allowing them to feel their very best. "Our approach to resolving your imbalances is functional and integrative. We work closely with you to first prioritize the main issues in your health and diagnose the causes. We then develop a customized plan of services, therapies and supplements unique to your condition and lifestyle that will best help you on your road back to good health. We believe your health and well-being is the result of harmony through moderation and prevention” as stated by the clinic’s website.

Dr Law was raised in a family of traditional Chinese medicine practitioners in Hong Kong. She earned her bachelor’s degree in physics and her master’s degree in aerospace engineering before continuing her studies in Chinese medicine at the Pacific College of Oriental Medicine in 2000. She then went on to earn her doctorate degree in natural health from Clayton College of Natural Health in 2010.

After graduation, Dr Law continued to expand her knowledge and skills by studying a wide variety of techniques in Chinese medicine, including sports, rehabilitation & traumatic injuries in Beijing, China. Some of the techniques she studied were the Global Balance Method by Dr Richard Tan in San Diego, the Pain Neutralization Technique by Dr Stephan Kaufman in Colorado and CranioSacral Therapy (CST) by the Upledger Institute International.

Dr Law has achieved community recognition for her excellence in service and her dedication to her community and the healing arts. Dr Law has had great success in treating various pain syndromes such as acute and chronic neck pain, upper shoulder pain, low back pain, dysmenorrhea, infertility, abdominal and epigastric pain, and headaches.

In addition, she is well-experienced in treating allergy and asthma, common colds, influenza, irregular heartbeat, skin rashes, irregular menstruation, stress-related mental and emotional problems, as well as detoxification.

Dr Law is the author of “A Learning Guide for Acupuncture” and “A Study Guide for Practical Therapeutics of Traditional Chinese Medicine”. She has also translated a number of works on TCM therapeutic methods from Chinese to English.

Acupuncture is a form of alternative medicine in which thin needles are inserted into the body. It is a key component of traditional Chinese medicine that is used to prevent and treat disease, relieve pain, balance mood, enhance athletic performance, increase fertility, as well as improve overall health and wellness. As an acupuncturist, Dr Law consults with each patient about their symptoms, diagnoses the issue according to TCM, and treats it using acupuncture needles and other tools. She aims to improve the body’s functions and to promote the natural self-healing process by stimulating specific anatomic sites - commonly referred to as acupuncture points or acupoints.
