COMEDY GAME SHOW

Greensboro, Aug 29, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Whether during playtime or while learning a lesson in school, it's a well-known fact that kids are far more imaginative than their adult counterparts. To that end, Gotta Have Games Co. is hosting the "CLASH of the Comedians" Comedy Game Show to help bring those sprouting young imaginations to real life. Proceeds from the show will provide ten Triad area elementary schools with free "I CAN Make It" TM Youth Workshops, which inspire children to use their imaginations to create inventions that will have a positive impact on their communities and maybe even the world.

The "CLASH of the Comedians" Comedy Game Show is a community event that will be held on the main stage at the historic Carolina Theatre, Saturday, November 9th at 4 pm. This 3-hour show combines the laughs of two national headliner comedians (Akintunde and Chinnitta 'Chocolate' Morris) with the thrilling experience of a real television-style game show, and is patterned after the nationally popular "LET'S HAVE CHURCH!"® Party Game. A special audience-participation round will allow select attendees the opportunity to win cash prizes while interacting on stage with the comedians on opposing teams.

Gotta Have Games is a family-owned game publishing company founded in 2006. We produce family party games and game show events that are designed to inspire, educate, and entertain various niche audiences. Our motto is, "We provide high-quality games that entertain and inspire the brain to retain." "LET'S HAVE CHURCH!"® is our flagship brand with family party games in stores around the U.S. & Canada, and a weekly radio game show that airs on 96.3 FM (Greensboro), 102.5 FM (High Point), and 103.5 FM (Winston-Salem) THE LIGHT.

For more information about the event or tax-deductible sponsorship opportunities please call Randolph Myers at 336-446-9897, email him info@letshavechurch.com, or visit www.ClashOfTheComedians.com.
