

Diverse Actor Steven Ciceron To Star In The Dramatic Short Film, “Audition From Hell”

Palm Springs based Independent film Company to begin filming dramatic film

Palm Springs, Sep 5, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Intriguism Motion Pictures (IMP) announces yet another project set for production this Fall 2019 by signing on the busy bi-coastal actor, Steven Ciceron. Ciceron recently starred in the wildly popular black-and-white comedy silent film series, “The Happy Hooligans,” which will resume production also this Fall 2019. Now, the versatile Ciceron is set to star in the upcoming dramatic short film, “Audition From Hell”, is a profoundly complex role, unlike any portrayal he has been associated with in the past -- including roles in Intriguism Moving Pictures films “The Glorification of Gwen”, “The Ghost of Room 13”, “The Circus of Death”...or in live theater.

Based on true-life experiences, Ciceron is cast as an off-kilter, desperate actor who will do ANYTHING for a part in a major motion picture. The unusual film’s principal photography is set for September 2019 in Palm Springs, California. Once completed, the film will be available for viewing on youtube and <http://www.intriguism.com>.

The production is a joint venture of Intriguism Moving Pictures/ Entar Entertainment. Iconoclastic filmmaker, Brother Andy, acts as a writer of the original screenplay, Executive Producer, and director. Corey Chambers and Steven Ciceron will serve as Producers. IMP is a prolific independent multimedia underground film company based in Palm Springs, California, which co-produces projects with LA-based Entar Entertainment.

“Mr. Ciceron will definitely surprise people in this film,” says Brother Andy. “This will be a moment of revelation for Steven -- as a portrait of an actor within the context of the movie, as a skilled professional performer being challenged, and as a person passionate about artistic expression as he has proven already.”
