

The Green Recruitment Company Launches a New Office in The Caribbean

London, Sep 25, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - The Green Recruitment Company is pleased to announce an exciting new chapter in our ambition to be the premium provider of global recruitment solutions to the green energy and technology sector. Today marks the official launch of our new office in George Town, Cayman Islands and covering the entire Caribbean region.

Matt Churchward, CEO of The Green Recruitment Company announced “We are genuinely excited by the prospects for clean energy transformation in the Caribbean. The region has a great opportunity through planned projects and rebuilds to deliver cheaper, greener and more resilient energy for all stakeholders. As a business, we are able to offer clients significant value by drawing upon extensive experience in delivering clean tech as part of several different global SMART island initiatives and the wider renewables sector as a whole.”

Whilst the Green Recruitment Company is proud of its global capability, we remain as ever committed to delivering a service that offers the best possible local engagement. We are delighted to announce that our office is headed up by two locally based and very experienced Caribbean operators; Ian Gilmour and Simon Garnett:

- Ian is an experienced executive covering multiple clients, including the private sector (financial services firms and SMEs) and government. Ian has managed global accounts on behalf of PwC and IBM and has worked on behalf of market leaders such as HSBC, Standard Chartered and Deutsche Bank. Ian’s role for the Green Recruitment Company is to liaise with Caribbean clients to deploy a professional, skilled workforce and enable the transition to resilient, low carbon energy and power infrastructure. Ian is a Board Member of the Cayman Renewable Energy Association and is based in the Cayman Islands.
- Simon is an FCCA qualified accountant with over 25 years post qualification experience and who has served in executive positions for the last 15 years. Based in the Caribbean since 2001, Simon has run his own Financial Services company for the last 2 years which has enabled him to develop an extensive network of contacts, not just within the financial services sector but in many other market segments including Green Energy. Simon’s expertise and strength lie in ensuring processes run smoothly and identifying partner opportunities. He has led and recruited successful teams including those within Royal Bank of Canada and looks forward to providing a seamless service as the Caribbean arm of the Green Recruitment Company.

Ian Gilmour, commenting on this new venture the Green Recruitment Company, said “It’s great to be joining up with an international recruitment business like the Green Recruitment Company. They are passionate advocates for the green economy and renewables in particular and represent a highly engaged talent pool of the best renewable energy professionals. I feel that we can offer an immediate and valuable contribution to the growing renewables scene in the Caribbean”.

Our Caribbean office will offer the full range of recruitment services including executive search, permanent, temporary and RPO recruitment services. If you would like to know more please email ian.gilmour@greenrecruitmentcompany.com
