

Eric Carter-Landin - New Mexican introduces a new podcast: True Consequences.

A true crime and mystery podcast focused on New Mexico and the desert Southwest

True Consequences

podcast

Desert Southwest.

Launching October 28, 2019, on Apple Podcasts, Google Podcasts, Stitcher, Soundcloud, Spotify, and wherever podcasts are found.

For Immediate Release – Albuquerque, NM – Eric Carter-Landin was born and raised in Socorro, New Mexico. He was five (1985) when his brother was murdered and the killer was never prosecuted. Carter-Landin created True Consequences- a podcast focused on crime in New Mexico because of his brother's case and because of the many unsolved and unresolved cases in New Mexico. Hoping to bring awareness to the general public about some of these cases, Carter-Landin's ultimate goal is to affect change and leverage public awareness to help drive some of these cases from cold to solved.

Releasing Monday, October 28, 2019, Episodes 1-3 of True Consequences:

- The Toy Box Killer
- Aliens in Taos
- Unsolved Cotton and Judy McKnight

"I'm excited to release the first three episodes of my new podcast: True Consequences. This is the first true crime and mystery podcast focused exclusively on New Mexico and the American Desert Southwest. I am hopeful that this project will open public dialogue about the unique issues affecting our state and lead to some meaningful change." – Eric Carter-Landin
