Get to know Cardiologist and Age Management Medicine Physician Dr. George C. Shapiro, who serves patients in New York.

New York City, Oct 14, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - A world-renowned cardiologist and a leading expert in age management medicine, Dr. Shapiro has over three decades of experience with board certifications in internal medicine, cardiovascular disease, and age management medicine.

He is the CEO and Founder of Precision Medical Associates in White Plains, New York. Precision Medical Associates offers personalized and comprehensive medical plans to restore patients' health. The practice specializes in regenerative medicine, anti-aging and age management treatments, and advanced life-saving treatments using state-of-the-art groundbreaking technology.

In addition, Dr. Shapiro serves as the President of Cenegenics in New York City, serving some of the most powerful leaders in business and society from around the world with age management treatments. Moreover, he serves as the Chief Medical Officer of Organicell, a publicly-traded biotechnology company committed to the research, development, and manufacture of new biologic medicine, with a focus on current and potential regenerative therapies.

On top of that, his professional roles include attending physician at NewYork-Presbyterian Lawrence Hospital in Bronxville, New York, as well as Adjunct Assistant Professor of Clinical Medicine at the New York Medical College in Valhalla, New York.

Always challenged by the need to innovate medicine, he has patented medical devices, as well as explored and innovated new medical protocols. This has led to him to a career in age management medicine, focusing on the prevention of heart disease and stroke, including cardiovascular genomics, metabolomics, microbiomics, regenerative medicine, and improvement of human longevity.

A 1988 graduate of the New York Medical College in Valhalla, Dr. Shapiro completed his postgraduate training, including his internship and residency in internal medicine at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. He then went on to complete his fellowship at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City, focusing on cardiovascular disease management, including congestive heart failure and heart transplantation.

In addition to being a Fellow of the American College of Cardiology, he is a member of numerous professional societies and organizations, including the American Society of Echocardiography, the American College of Physicians, the American Medical Association, the American Heart Association, the American Diabetes Association, the American Stroke Association, the Medical Society of the State of New York, the Westchester County Medical Society, the Society of Practitioners - Columbia University College of Physicians & Surgeons, the Society of Cardiovascular Computed Tomography, the American Academy of Anti-Aging Medicine, and the Age Management Medicine Group.

Active on the panel for the Age Management Medicine Group, Dr. Shapiro serves his local, regional, and national community as an Emergency Responder. He has completed extensive training through the New York State Division of Fire Prevention and Control and U.S. Department of Homeland Security Center for Domestic Preparedness in many programs including Weapons of Mass Destruction and Incident Response to Terrorist Bombings at the Energetic Materials Research and Testing Center.

Furthermore, he is on the Board of Directors for Orion Children International, a not-for-profit organization established to empower orphaned and vulnerable children through early intervention. He has also been a national speaker for several top pharmaceutical companies, a clinical expert for various radio stations, and a medical consultant for several TV shows.

As a cardiologist and age management medicine physician, Dr. Shapiro's passion for optimizing wellness and managing aging has served him well as he has a large family of five children and a lovely wife, Celeste.
