

Margaret Njoki Njoroge, BSN, RN, a Registered Nurse with Frankur Homecare Services

Get to know Registered Nurse, Margaret Njoki Njoroge, who serves patients in Boston, and surrounding towns in Massachusetts.

New York City, Nov 1, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Margaret is a registered nurse with over 35 years of experience in the medical field. She is currently working at Frankur Homecare Services in Saugus, Massachusetts. Understanding that one size does not fit all, Frankur Homecare Services offers a range of home care assistance services. As one of the leading private home care services in the Boston area, they create customized care plans based on the unique preferences and needs of their clients. Their home care solutions are aimed at addressing physical challenges and promoting the emotional well-being of their clients.

Professionally, Margaret travels to clients' homes to provide care services and living assistance, thereby allowing them to live independently and as comfortable as possible. Having always wanted to become a nurse, she feels good when she can help others.

Attributing her success to the support of her family, education, and experience, she has been involved with several volunteering causes, including the Red Cross during the period of Tribal Crashes in Kenya, Africa in 2007 and Operation Smile Team. She has also offered group and individual psychosocial counseling to the victims of post-election violence in 2008.

In regards to her academic career, she earned her Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree from Salem State University in Salem, Massachusetts in 2015. Her research interests include issues of homelessness in the city of Boston. Having interviewed health providers in Transition Inn and Inn-Between Houses for the homeless population in Boston, she has identified strategies to improve outreach and delivery of care within the city of Peabody.

In addition to being certified in Basic Life Support, Margaret is a member of the Nurses Service Organization.

A registered nurse (RN) is a nurse who has graduated from a nursing program and met the requirements outlined by a country, state, province or similar licensing body to obtain a nursing license. RNs fulfill a variety of job duties. In addition to their primary role in treating and caring for patients, their responsibilities also include educating patients and the public about a variety of medical conditions, as well as providing emotional support and advice to the families of their patients. Other RN job functions include performing diagnostic tests and analyzing results, operating medical equipment, administering medications, recording patients' symptoms and medical histories, and assisting with patient rehabilitation and follow-up.
