

Seeing Through the American Civil War

A British citizen's personal lens of captivating characters and the events that glued them

THE OTHER ANGEL

Ann Covell

Pittsburg, Nov 21, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - A sprawling story covering from a time before the American Civil War until, after its conclusion, The Other Angel is a dramatic, startling tale of how four young people from diverse backgrounds, each with their own aspirations and values, become unlikely though firm friends. It is an absorbing story that will attract readers as they get to know the characters, whose disparate lives intertwine before the Civil War splits them up. As the Gettysburg battle aftermath brings them back together, it is an exciting story filled with breathtaking scenarios of plots, war, and espionage, as well as romance and pathos. The story will resonate with readers as it unfolds to an emotion-charged conclusion that will invoke their empathy—with fascinating characters who first lived their prewar lives and then became a part of the struggle of that era.

A British citizen, Ann Covell had an extensive career in the UK health service management and research sectors and had served for many years as a justice of the peace in the U.K. Now retired, and recently widowed, Ann lives in the delightful seaside town of Torquay, England. Her main interests include nineteenth-century history, fine arts, and politics. Ann is also the author of “Remembering the Ladies,” a compendium of essays on nineteenth-century U.S. First Ladies, and “Jane Pierce, her Family, Life and Times.” Jane Pierce was the 14th U.S. First: Lady, who suffered a number of tragedies within her short life.

Ann’s work will be exhibited at the Miami Book Fair Street Fair weekend, to be held at Miami Dade College (Wolfson Campus) in downtown Miami this coming November 22-24 at the Authors Press booth. You may meet the author personally at our booth starting at 2:00 p.m. on the 23rd of November where she will be signing copies, with free giveaways.
