

Users Can Now Enjoy Priority Access To The Activities They Love

This new platform connects consumers directly with Creators, providing special privileges, bonus perks and other early bird deals.

Singapore, Nov 12, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - Consumers dislike being stuck in line. When they do, tickets are usually available in standardized tiers and don't cater to personalized needs. Special Privileges, Bonus Perks and Deals are traditionally reserved for higher membership tiers

Our recent survey of consumers indicates that “activities and experiences are so spread out that many don't have special memberships or private access to all of them. Consumers often feel like they commonly miss out on Experiences and deals”.

Experience Marketplace, LivMo, aims to correct that by connecting consumers directly with Experience / Activity Creators, providing special privileges, bonus perks and other early-bird deals.

Getting tomorrow's deals, today.

An upcoming Priority Access Program would give consumers further opportunities to purchase experiences, 24 hours before they're released to public. In this age of private and hefty membership fees, LivMo is looking to disrupt ticketing services, traditional credit card, luxury and concierge services. Traditionally reserved for the wealthy, LivMo aims to put access in the hands of the masses. (Users are currently able to add themselves to the waiting list for the launch on the 1st January 2020).

"We work with Creators / Partners, to negotiate bulk discounts, special perks and unique access. Our core focus is to provide customers with exciting experiences and deals, while helping Creators market and sell more effectively", confirms Kevin Ou (Group CEO, LivMo).

From backstage meetings with the former president, Barack Obama, unique dining experiences with Michelin-starred chefs, to ultimate on-stage party experiences with top DJ's (Tiesto, Martin Garrix, etc), to categories like Date Ideas, Family Activities and Late Night Fun, etc. LivMo aims to use its the proprietary platform to connect consumers with the things they love any time.

"We are the additional level of safety and precaution, and we do these checks so busy consumers don't have to. No one wants another Fyre Festival, but no one does their own checks", mentions Dustin Steward (CEO, LivMo North America).

From a streamlined discovery process to one-click booking, LivMo is on a continual journey to make a consumers' life simpler and better.

One-stop platform

The discovery process is fragmented and time-consuming. Users often navigate through various websites and finally settle on the most convenient event instead of what they truly want.. LivMo's unique platform combines AI technology with human expertise (Experience Architects) to deliver curated experience recommendations, providing access to exclusive deals. "Imagine a world where the things you love are actively sent to you via your preferred communication channel, instead of you having to search for it." declares Mr. Steward.

With no membership fees and no booking fees on each purchase, it allows experience organizers (Creators) to maximize their growth potential and revenue all without having to hire additional employees. The platform is easy-to-use, empowering both Creators and Users online to come together offline, providing access to sought after global events and extraordinary experiences.

LivMo's team of Experience Architects continuously curate and verify Creators and Experiences with the highest digital and offline protocols on security and privacy. Both Creators and Users can rest assure that their data stays safe and is never shared.
