REVEREND PETER G. VU

Pittsburg, Feb 28, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - The Vietnam War was a historic battle, not one to be easily forgotten, that is why many movies and books depict the politics behind the war. However, only a few are from the perspective of a survivor. Reverend Peter G. Vu, having witnessed the end of the war, harbored a deep appreciation for peace. Thus, he writes Living For Higher Purpose: Story of a City Boy Who Survived the Vietnam War by Living for Jesus and Others to tell the story of Viet – his escape towards freedom and his battle against nature, man, and himself. Despite all of the things that could crumble Viet’s resolve and shatter his heart towards surrender, he kept walking, and eventually emerges with a stronger calling to serve and follow the Lord.

“This book is so fascinating that once I got to the part about escape at sea I couldn't stop. These unique true stories were written about all aspects of life. I was deeply touched by them. I felt that my faith has been deepened. This book is food for the soul. I highly recommend it. Thank you Father Peter Vu for written such a great book! I hope this book will be available in audio and will be made into a movie,” says Vien Taliana, an Amazon customer.

Rev Vu is the author of 5 more books Lord Jesus, I Want to See... (Adult Edition Devotional), Lord Jesus, I Want to See... (Family/Children Edition Devotional), Searching for God, the Precious Treasure, in My Daily Life (Christian Spiritual), The Adventure with My Blanky 'Mylar' (Children Story).
