New York City, Feb 27, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Dr. Schulhof is a board-certified ophthalmologist who can be found on staff at Brook Plaza Ophthalmology in Brooklyn, New York City, New York.

“Whether you require surgical treatment, custom fitting of glasses or contact lenses or a complete and thorough eye examination, Brook Plaza Ophthalmology will make sure you receive the most outstanding vision care available. We have been serving the Brooklyn community for over 30 years and strive to exceed our patients’ expectations. When you walk through our doors, you will be greeted by a compassionate and experienced team that are dedicated to providing high-quality personalized eye care for your whole family in a friendly and professional environment,” as stated on their website.

In addition to serving patients at Brook Plaza Ophthalmology, Dr. Schulhof is an attending surgeon at the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary, where he enjoys teaching residents and fellows.

Throughout his academic career, he received his undergraduate degree from CUNY Queens College, graduating Summa Cum Laude. He then went on to earn his medical degree from the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai and remained at Mount Sinai for his residency in ophthalmology, serving as chief resident in his final year. He completed his glaucoma fellowship at the prestigious New York Eye and Ear Infirmary.

A member of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the American Glaucoma Society, the doctor is board-certified in ophthalmology by the American Board of Ophthalmology, which is an independent, non-profit organization responsible for certifying ophthalmologists in the United States of America.

Ophthalmology is a branch of medicine and surgery, which deals with the diagnosis and treatment of eye disorders. Ophthalmologists are experts in the diseases, functions, and anatomy of the eye. They may provide routine care such as vision testing, as well as prescribe and fit eyeglasses or contact lenses. However, ophthalmologists are also surgeons. They repair traumatic injuries to the eye and perform cataract, glaucoma, and corneal surgery.

Recognized for his outstanding work in his field, Dr. Schulhof has presented at international ophthalmology meetings, as well as has published multiple articles in peer-reviewed journals on various topics in ophthalmology and glaucoma.
