

Level UP Learning Centers Switches to Virtual Classrooms

Level UP Learning centers is providing Live Teacher Led classes during school closures.

Moncton, Mar 22, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Level UP Learning centers has closed all of their learning centers and moved into virtual classrooms. Level UP has been an international leader in STEM education, and now they are leading the move to virtual learning.

Live classes are designed to help young students learn at home with interactive activities that encourage participation through entertaining and stimulating digital content.

Our Virtual classes are:

- Teacher-Led. We think that the teacher matters the most. Therefore we work with experienced education professionals.
- Project-Based. Code is a means of creative expression. We empower students to build projects that are important to them.
- Team Work. Kids Learn better together. We encourage students to work together during lessons and after sessions.

The CDC recommends creating a schedule for learning activities. Level Up Learning can help students cope with both the stress, boredom, and isolation that comes from being stuck at home.

Level Up offers daily, weekly, and private classes in: Roblox, Minecraft, Game Design, Python and JavaScript.

Year-round programs, and summer camps, prepare students for college, internships, and careers in Programming, Game Development, Design, and Robotics.

"As parents, we know the importance of providing children with structure and opportunities to socialize and learn while schools are closed," said Jeff Hughes, Founder of Level Up Learning Centers. "Our programs help students stay focused and positive during these challenging times."

Parents can sign up for programs here.
