

The Dynamic Traces of EDM and House in Upcoming DJ FLX's Soundscape is a Modern-day Gala

The dynamics of contemporary EDM, future bass, and house in upcoming artist FLX's soundscape is a banging experience of musical and rhythmic coordination.

's sound defies musical standards and flows into the mesmeric stream of EDM, future bass, and house modules. His thematic glory is not confined to a circle but surpasses creative risks in a beautiful consolidation. His interpretations of dance music in his songs like 'Stronger' and 'Wish You Well' brim with the dazzling and beguiling spark of intense thematic and musical liberation for the artist and the audience alike. A beautiful cascading flow of thumping groove and lustrous arrangements make the overall experience of his songs all the more seasoned and appealing.

Felix, who also goes by the name FLX hails from South Germany and has been utilizing his skills to format songs with an eccentric fortitude. His other songs like 'Off The Floor', 'Out Of My Mind', and 'Miles Away' capture the glistening aesthetics of electronic dance music like no other. He started spinning his roundtables at events at 15 and eventually got into the scope of radio in 2019 with immense acknowledgment and appreciation from the relevant industry.

The artist's biggest influences are Mike Williams, Mesto, Martin Garrix, and Don Diablo among others that led to him devising the intense feeling of 'Stronger' and 'Wish You Well'. His audience is his biggest motivator pushing him to take up bigger challenges and materialize them into structured songs. Two new singles are already set to release in April and June as he gears up with SWUTCH Music GmbH for two more tracks. Follow him on Spotify, Instagram, and Facebook for more updates.
