

Supreme Master Ching Hai's Appeal to Religious and Spiritual Leaders: Veganism to Save Lives and Our Planet

Thou shall not kill ~ Ahimsa ~ Nonviolence is the most important precept all must keep especially at this crucial time of humanity, regardless of any faith we belong to.

London, May 12, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Sustainability and feasibility are two of the most important areas of concern when it comes to the evolution of humans and their existence. In supporting a recent appeal for all religious and spiritual leaders in adopting the vegan solution to save lives, prevent future pandemics and mitigate global warming, by world-renowned spiritual teacher, artist, and humanitarian Supreme Master Ching Hai, the UK based non-profit organisation Be Vegan Make Peace addresses religious and spiritual leaders regarding the importance of supporting this message in order to pave way for a sustainable world that does not exploit the lives of other co-inhabitants and damages its natural resources.

We are currently living at the brink of a global breakdown in terms of climatic and sustainability crisis. The motivational speech does not just highlight the importance of conservation to maintain the right balance of ecosystems, but also inspires fellow leaders and spiritual gurus, to spread the valuable words of awareness among their acolytes and disciples. The message speaks about the immediate requirement of animal protection and adopting veganism as a way of life that will enhance our spiritual development and close the evil doors of the future and further disruption of the earth and its inhabitants.

The world is living under a threat and with each passing day, we are coming across the retribution for years of animal exploitation; in the form of forest fires, animal extinction, deforestation, global epidemic, and more. This is a sign that viable changes should be implemented into the cycle of survival and sustainability before it is too late. Animals going extinct and the increasing number of endangered species are the results of years of illegal animal trade and business prospects. The collaterals of such businesses directly impact mankind and if awareness is not rightly spread across communities, the damage can surpass the existing boundary of a complete disruption of human existence.

Animals have been exploited to sustain mankind's limitless requirements for food, clothing, and more. Animal raising industries are one of the major sources of methane gas that directly contribute to the increase in global temperature. Industries like meat, dairy, and fashion treat these animals in not just inhumane ways but also endangers the ecosystem. Business interests and capitalistic minds have taken advantage of animals for years on end and today, as the whole world sits at the brink of complete demolition, it is the spiritual leaders who should carry the torch of the harbinger. Eating meat is unnecessary for people and incredibly cruel.

Human need and greed have extracted every possible outlet of natural resources and carved the path of inevitable danger. It is time to change our ways and adopt veganism as a way of restoring the lost jewels and resources of Mother EARTH. The best way of connecting people and communities with a unanimous goal is through motivational words of leaders and spiritual mentors who will show us the path to salvation. When talking about sustainability, veganism is the only way to break the shackles of economic interests and lead the way to a better future. Be Vegan Make Peace's heartfelt appeal to government bodies and other leaders who are authorised to implement rules to enforce veganism across the world will help recover and restore what has been lost. In a volatile time where every step decides future implications, leaders will shepherd mankind to the best outcomes of sustainable change.

With all our hope, prayers and deepest sincerity, we are inviting you to hear the full message of the appeal at <https://suprememastertv.com/en1/v/88425789933.html>
