

A Tribute to Your Deceased Loved Ones: Guo Artistry Makes Cremation Art Paintings a Standout Contribution

New York, Jul 3, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Guo Artistry has introduced one of the most heartfelt and personalized contributions of art through his cremation paintings. Turning human cremated remains into a beautiful portrait of your deceased loved ones, Guo Artistry has revolutionized art and reminiscence into one format of a visual exhibition.

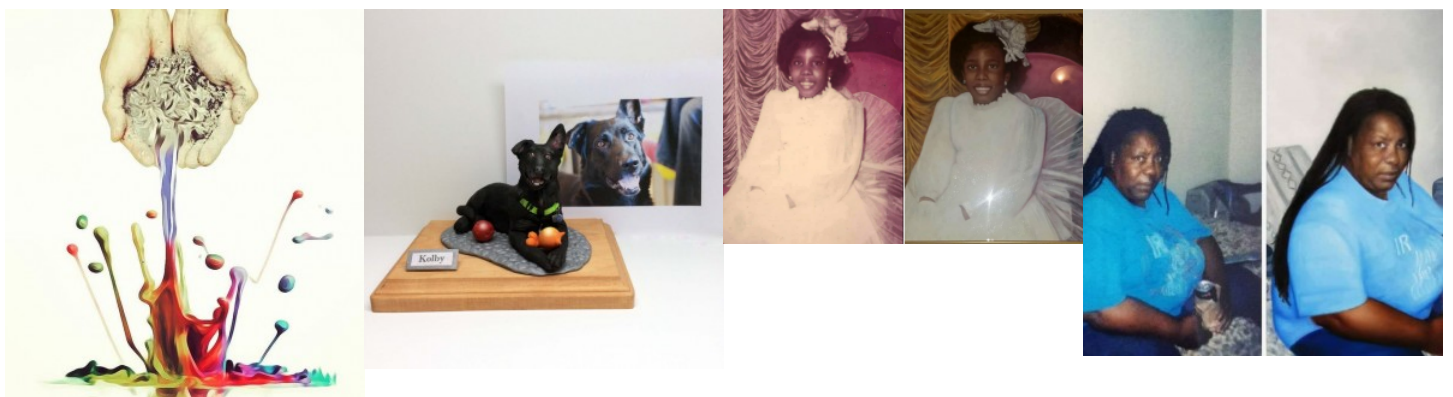

Founded by painter Elliot K., the service is a beautiful tribute of gratitude and warmth extended towards the ones who have left worldly belongingness. Cremation art paintings allow people to move on with a memory that is captured through brush strokes on canvas. The ability of art to stir a cascading flow of emotions further makes cremation painting the best mental closure. They work on the concept of mixing paint with the ashes of the departed ones that make the paintings come out with the most natural looks and longevity. Every step is undertaken only after getting approval from the family so that the painting reflects the unadulterated essence and vitality of the person's life expanse.

Each of the paintings come with a lifetime warranty for any kind of damage. However, an ephemeral resistant coat is applied as finishing touches that expand the durability of the cremation art piece. Cremation remains of loved ones turned into a painting are probably the closest a person can come in their search for closure and viable answers to the tragedy. These paintings are known as 'Portraits of the Essence Paintings' that add the kindest touch of belongingness in a memorial service or funeral home. Painting with cremation ashes and oil-based colors transform the idea of your loved ones into a life-like portrait image that will beautifully house their soul and ethos through the transgressiveness of art.

Death cannot be comprehended but then again, it is an integral part of the entire expanse where life confluences with its destined termination. Losing someone can result in extreme cases of stress and sadness. Guo Artistry, if not all, significantly makes this journey of coming to terms with the loss easier by giving life to the last remains of your loved ones. It also helps to heal and comfort and in the long run, becomes a part of one's journey of recovery. Since each requirement is different from one another, Elliot K. has imbibed various techniques and approaches to help his clients cope with their loss. A form of therapeutic art, NARM, and Somatic Experiences, he has helped his grieving clients to come to terms with their grief and distress through his timeless paintings.
