Pay attention to the compatibility of the door with the ceiling, floor and walls. The gold standard for pleasant design (when considering the installation of doors in an apartment) is the fact that interior doors should be of the same material, the same color and similar design. Therefore, it can be very difficult to choose the right model, taking into account the different sizes of the opening and the dimensions of your rooms.

The choice of interior doors on the market is huge. Especially if we talk about New York City, where there are representative offices of almost all manufacturers represented in USA. At the same time, finding quality cheap doors is not an easy task. In our Doors & More showroom, we guarantee that you will find best quality for and affordable price.

Interior doors are definitely a visiting card of every person's apartment. This is the facade; this is one of the main design elements in the house. Therefore, the interior doors can tell about the taste, luck and disposition of the owner. Such doors should be chosen carefully and thoughtfully.

Aspects of choice

For those who love luxury and comfort, no matter for what money, solid wood doors are perfect. They are eco-friendly and at the same time look expensive. However, let us face it - the cost of the door slab is important to us. Therefore, it is worth paying attention to the models that are cheaper, but which look no worse, for example, the MDF and laminated doors. In Doors & More store, you will find all the possible price ranges and materials for any taste. We recommend you too look through the basic door features before visiting the store.

Main characteristics of door slabs:

- The most popular are classic doors. There is also a wide choice in passage doors, louver doors, sliding, bifold and pocket doors.
- Production technology. Low-cost doors are often finished with natural or artificial veneer, as well as polymer film. When examining the slab, special attention should be paid to the joints - any cracks or overlays are simply unacceptable.
- The quality of the door hardware is also of great importance. Some budget models are sold without it at all. However, as practice shows, even with high-quality hardware, you can buy fairly cheap doors. Manufacturers usually buy components in bulk, which is reflected in the final price.

If you are not a designer and do not have enough experience in remodeling, then you should study the materials on the Internet in order to successfully choose the color and pattern of the door. The design should be combined with both the ceiling and walls of the apartment, since the door will be present in several rooms of the house at once.

Also, when choosing, of course, you should pay attention to the seller. There are experienced specialists in our Doors & More store. You can come and check it by yourself. A huge showroom and attentive staff will help you to most accurately understand and meet your needs.
