

New Children's Book helps kids learn while wearing masks

Phoenix, Aug 21, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Today, Author, Sade Bradford-Bond announced her new children's book, entitled, What Color is My Mask?. The book helps young kids to identify basic colors while being introduced to friendly faces that wear multicolored masks. It offers a new way for parents of babies, toddlers, and young children to teach their kids new skills and help them to adjust to wearing masks and face coverings.

"Just like adults, young children have to learn how to adjust to wearing masks too. It can be very scary in their world to see people with face coverings.” says Author, Sade Bradford-Bond. “My book encourages them to feel comfortable wearing masks while learning the things that they would typically learn, like basic colors.”

Features and benefits of the book, What Color is My Mask? include:

- Helping to reduce fear and anxiety of wearing masks
- Creating a positive learning environment
- Teaching and reinforcing basic skills learning

What Color is My Mask? will be available starting August 21, 2020, for $8.49 at Amazon.com. For more information on What Color is My Mask?, visit Amazon.

About The Author: Sade Bradford-Bond is an author and motivational speaker. She writes and speaks to audiences to encourage them to pursue their goals. For more information, please visit www.sadebradford.net.

Media Contact

Sade Bradford-Bond

info@sadebradford.net

Source : Sade Bradford-Bond (Author)

See on IssueWire