kolkata, Nov 1, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - The COVID-19 pandemic has surely shaken up the entire world. Besides, this pandemic has also delayed everything, especially the academic years of the school students who have cleared their 10th-grade board examinations & are aspirants in the field of Law. While it requires intense training sessions to pursue Law at the college level, it's next to impossible, rather risky, to join offline classes in coaching centres this year. To avoid social gatherings and be at home as much as possible, OPUS has come up with innovative ways for the young law aspirants to prepare for the Common Law Admission Test, famously known as CLAT, from their homes through online classes. As per their announcements, The OPUS Way has launched online coaching for CLAT keeping in mind the safety of students during this situation where the rate of COVID-19 is increasing at such rates in the country.

Many existing students, who have gone ahead with the online coaching for CLAT at OPUS, have revealed that the launch of the online CLAT sessions at the institute has been a great advantage for them as many others won't be able to attend offline classes due to this unforeseen outbreak of the Coronavirus. The live sessions for the preparation for CLAT that is provided by The OPUS Way allow the dedicated students to ardently continue with their study sessions & preparations. This grants the student an upper hand to get customized training to crack the CLAT examination and get into a top law college or university in India that paves the path to a successful career in the future.

With the advantage of studying from the comfort of their own houses, students can now prepare for CLAT & benefit from it with the personalized mentorship from the teachers at OPUS. The unwavering students, who aim to reach the skies, are always welcome to register for a free demo class on their website to get an idea of the highly qualified faculty there and how the interactive sessions actually take place.

Due to the unprecedented COVID-19 situation, the need for online education has acquired an enormous momentum since. In such times, OPUS has come up with tremendously useful facilities which are currently the need of the hour - 300+ online live sessions, which are interactive in nature and a two-way learning process for the students & the teachers, and 250+ topic-wise online tests & 60+ online full-length mock test series, both of which have self-reviewing and self-analyzing amenities so that students are able to point out their weak areas and improve on them. All of these tests are readily available on the CLAT student portal of The OPUS Way once the student gets enrolled. All those students who have passed their 10th standard examinations can join the CLAT coaching at OPUS right away.

Speaking about the latest online CLAT coaching, it should also be mentioned that the best part of the CLAT preparation at OPUS is the individual attention that all the students get during the classes and after - that is during the doubt clearing sessions after the course is almost done with - and the very healthy & functional student-teacher interaction throughout the course. The five subjects that are crucial to crack CLAT are English, Current Affairs, Logical Reasoning, Quantitative Aptitude and Legal Reasoning. While the first two subjects are taught by Mr Noshir Mehta, the most friendly & understanding teacher who ensures that each class immensely captures the interest of every single student, the next two subjects are taught by Mr Soumya Roy, who makes Maths & Logic as simple as the subjects can get for even those who fear numbers, formulae and patterns. Lastly, but most importantly, what the most sought-after information regarding the faculty of Legal Reasoning is that the subject is taught by an actual lawyer who currently practices at the Calcutta High Court - Rishad Medora, a graduate from NLSIU Bangalore, the No. 1 Law University in the country.

The extremely knowledgeable and highly experienced teachers have been for almost a decade and still are using exceptionally innovative and ground-breaking methods to not just make the classes interesting but also make the students imbibe the core and advanced concepts in easier ways. In 2020, OPUS has managed to push their CLAT students to go beyond the boundaries of excellence and get outstanding ranks in the entrance examination - two of them are Shreyas Sinha with an AIR of 33 in CLAT 2020 & 10 in AILET 2020 and Ankur Ghosh with an AIR of 133 in CLAT 2020.

To conclude, The OPUS Way has been hugely motivating towards students aspiring with utmost dedication for a career in law and pushes them towards success with the right guidance and proper teaching techniques. Apart from just live online classes of CLAT, OPUS also provides all kinds of study materials like subject-wise books, topic-wise tests, full-length mock tests of both old and new patterns, answer keys, Current Affairs supplements, etc. as hard copies, and soft copies on the fully updated student portal. They are also planning to resume their offline classes as soon as the pandemic comes under control.
