Get to know Registered Nurse, Rachele Pasco Sullivan, who serves patients in California.

New York City, Oct 22, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Rachele is a registered nurse currently working in California to help with COVID-19 testing.

A Recognized Traditional Healer, she has been a holistic nurse for over three decades. “I call myself a hilot practitioner, which is a healing tradition that comes from the Philippines. What I do falls under the definition of a Hilot practitioner and beyond. A healing session with me is based on what a person needs to help them feel lighter in body, mind, and soul. I am given permission to enter their realms - all of their elements, their spiritual bodies, etheric bodies, etc. It’s like peeling layers, and the layer that is most stuck calls to me, whether the person wants to address it or not” expressed Rachele.

Prior to her current endeavours, she worked with a midwife to help open her birth practice in Washington. Additionally, she worked as a volunteer for an AIDS & HIV clinic in San Francisco.

One of her dreams is to become a Family Nurse Practitioner and open her own practice one day. “My personal vision is to belong to a network of people who are willing to sit in a circle or in kapwa or on the phone and be heard and be able to talk about the different things that are on our minds as a collective network. My personal dream is to create a healers home and hearth, like a retreat center open to other healers to create a place where people can escape everyday life and connect with nature. With good food too! I’m hoping to see that pop up in other areas of the world so that it is easier to visit other places and visit people without it costing an arm and leg, where it feels like you are going to visit family” stated Rachele.

She attributes her success to her passion for her profession, her belief in the power of healing, as well as her desire to be there for her patients and help them in their time of need.

A Registered Nurse (RN) is a nurse who has graduated from a nursing program and met the requirements outlined by a country, state, province or similar licensing body to obtain a nursing license. RNs fulfill a variety of job duties. In addition to their primary role in treating and caring for patients, their responsibilities also include educating patients and the public about a variety of medical conditions, as well as providing emotional support and advice to the families of their patients. Other RN job functions include leadership, research, performing diagnostic tests and analyzing results, operating medical equipment, administering medications, recording patients’ symptoms and medical histories, and assisting with patient rehabilitation and follow-up.

When she is not working, Rachele enjoys cooking and being outside in nature.
