General manager of the Farm, John D'Mello first introduced these rice cakes in India in 2016. These rice cakes, previously alien to Indians, has not only given the fitness community a reason to smile, but has also put Goa on the organic food map. The cakes are made from locally grown red and brown & black rice, which is said to be beneficial in weight loss and keeps the body healthy. The ready-to-eat organic rice cakes have gained popularity among in gym enthusiasts over the past few years as they are like bread but with 0% fat thus give you benefits aplenty.
Initially set up in 1980 by British national David Gower, Ambrosia Farm has grown ten-fold since. When John took over, he opened his door to local farmers, helping them in organic farming and delivering products through the online portal and offline supply chains across India. While, Gower had earned the nickname 'Saladbaba' for introducing healthy salads to the Goan plate, John continues in the footsteps of his predecessor with Panaji, Nov 9, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Yes, it's true that Goa is now a new hub for organic food. Ambrosia organic farm goa's first organic company run by the "SALADBABA" (John Dmello) introduced new Indian bread it called rice cakes. Rice cakes are alien for Indians but its new trend in Goa that weight loss with rice cakes and if it is organic its bonus for you. Yes, it's true rice cakes like daily bread with 0% fat and it gives you many benefits.

Established by foreigner & run by Indian its story behind the ambrosia organic farm & SALADBABA is interesting. Providing salad to Goa they became SALADBABA. Organic vegetables and organic groceries are specialty of ambrosia organic farm and their farmers. Runs successfully last 27 years. Now ambrosia organic run by SALADBABA (John Dmello) and he took next level entry by delivering internationally. Currently, many followers from London Russia japan Germany and many more countries ordering the food from the ambrosia.

John is famous as SALADBABA & for his free training all over India for organic farming mostly he gives free seed for farmers to invent some new organic food in India. His routine is every year 3 countries visit and stay in the rural area of that countries and learn with their farmers about their farming and getting that seeds in India growing their food in India & provide to the worldwide. Being an organic farmer, he is donating 50% of his income to the farmers children education and helping the students for course fees. Currently two schools from village area of goa Maharashtra boundaries under the ambrosia organic and providing free education for farmers children. Ambrosia organic farm is a working nonprofit company stand for farmers providing them a premium price for their crops and this reason gives ambrosia organic farm special respect from worldwide organic followers and lovers. straight from the farm to your hand.

The story of SALADBABA is inspiring the Goan farmers. He showed that organic farming is the future of the world. He is from a middle-class farmers family and became the icon of organic farming. Last year's flood situation john donated 11 lac Rs to farmers from Chandgad who lost their house and he came in news on prime newspapers and channels from Maharashtra. he is quite famous in students from Maharashtra & Goa area. COVID-19 stopped all industries but not farming.

Now the Goa is changing the trend of tourism to organic farming many farmers from goa connected ambrosia organic farm and supporting them for changing organic farming trend. Saladbaba already launched organic rice cakes which are made of red and brown rice which is beneficial for weight loss and keep you healthy. It's quite famous in gym lovers and its taste is such beautiful. It's ready to eat food with the gym or without a gym to lose weight. Its really interesting organic weight loss. That's the reason Goan farmers now growing their brand worldwide and giving the best option of organic food. And goa's farmers making such a nice way to help all the farmers with donating free education with their children.

Ambrosia organic farm struggled really hard last 27 years but at the end result, you can see that the farmers finally changed the trend of farming in goa and company became worldwide.
