The soft rock guitar strums and angelic vocalization in the Phoenix-based pop artist Grace Otto’s debut music video ‘Dreams’ are backed by monochromatic background.

Phoenix, Nov 23, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Once known for her style of songwriting and playwright skills, the new star of the pop and rock music scene, Grace Otto tries to influence half of the population with a heart-warming music video 'Dreams'. The upcoming Phoenix-based pop artist has a mesmeric personality that she painted in the black and white set of the video. It is her debut performance officially directed by Lance Gergar. It premiered on November 18, 2020, and the response from the people makes it look like a titanic success for the young songstress. She enraptures every sentimental human on this planet with her dulcet vocals and endless waves of hypnotic soundscape throughout the music video. She talks about the shivering nights and sleepless hours, putting up with a fight with anxiety and self-doubt. She weaves a simple plot for the illuminating music video which is generic and relatable in most cases. Hoping about thriving on the passion and individuality, she comes clean with wild verses and slow bass that hypnotize the viewers longer than usual.

Upcoming singer Grace Otto hails from Arizona where she grew old with her musical odyssey. The local culture of the place influenced her to evolve her musical endeavors with time, eventually turning it into the sacred flow of alternative pop. She was born to be an artist, the best of her kind, with her grandfather's blessings. She is a polymath in the new pop industry who started to practice art as a toddler in his lap. Her grandfather played fake book after fake book of jazz standards, helping her to explore more about her aesthetic. She has grown up in a loving family where she received all the love and support to achieve all the small and big, glorious dreams she has ever weaved. She is an alumna of the University of Arizona where she graduated with Theatre (specializing in Devising/original works) in 2019. While directing for a few popular plays, the amateur auteur interned at the Jeff Haskell Studio for a while.

'Dreams' is her debut project after completing college that comes with an official music video that is so engrossing that your mind will keep on slipping away. She was inspired to make the video about resilience on the fire of reincarnation of her soul. She mends her broken wings and keeps her chins up when the current of provocative emotions try to drown her into misery. She has been through lots of trials and tribulations while surviving as an indie-pop artist. The scars from past relationships and broken trusts helped her to shape her flames of passion. She felt like a winner while singing the lines with mellow strokes of the piano. Get the new music video on Youtube, Instagram, and twitch tv.
