Enabling Bluetooth will allow for touchless dispensing from a Smartphone, preventing direct contact with the surfaces of the water cooler.

“Because of COVID-19, we have deemed it essential to create a touch-free water appliance for the health and safety of consumers,” said Elizabeth Falls, Marketing Manager.

Many offices have reopened but have had a difficult time finding a water cooler that will make employees feel at ease. With ION Bluetooth Dispense, consumers can rest easy knowing they can hydrate at the touch of a button on their phone.
