

Progressive Metal Artist Stefan Wenger Creates an Instrumental Scope of Musical Abundance

Artist Stefan Wenger is creating a mesmerizing scope of instrumental progressive metal music with his limitless insightful perspectives and creative knowledge.

Laveen, Nov 25, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Independent artist Stefan Wenger is creating a beautiful soundscape of instrumental progressions that compels his audience to go on a journey of dreamy, picturesque landscape. Working alongside the framework of instrumental progressive metal music, he has delivered many songs that define his creative space. His song 'Dualism' is an important track in his soundscape that allowed him to penetrate more into the various implementations of progressive metal styles. A self-taught musician, his use of various techniques, licks, and scales improved over the years as today he stands high basking in accomplishments.

The artist hails from Switzerland and looks up to artists and performing acts like Rick Graham, Paul Wardingham, Rusty Cooley, Paul Gilbert, Modern Day Babylon, Distant Dream, Widek, Periphery as his biggest influences. His other song 'Singularity' also sets him apart in creative and eccentric glee as he is uninhibited in his musical expressions as a guitarist. His enthusiasm for music started from early childhood and over the years, he imbibed his style and individualism as an artist. His musical resilience also allows him to work in the subgenres of djent and melodic metal. His song 'Nebula' also expands his career into an endless musical stream.

Artist Stefan Wenger has many other songs to his name such as 'Orbit', 'Code Red', and 'Pulsar'. Writing and composing all by himself, he was able to put his mindful expressions into the making of his songs. A soundscape that sends the audience on a journey of distant contemplation, his diversity, and creative abundance is here to engage the entire globe.
