

Tony Wellin & Alessa Ray produce a foreign form of very bluesy sound in the new single 'Lockdown with Me'

Bringing the most avant-garde collaboration in the history of electro-swing musicscape, Tony Wellin & Alessa Ray relish on the crazy hooks of 'Lockdown with Me'.

Los Angeles, Nov 28, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Get into the grooves with the vintage staccatos of savory jazz flow and heavy swing music as you enter into the world of the Italian DJ Tony Wellin. He joins Alessa Ray to produce a beautiful electro-swing project that will let you roll a good time. The powerful force of the two passionate artists has embarked on a new statement for the newest genre of dance music through the swift flow of the song 'Lockdown with Me'. The genre has become very popular lately for the tremendous creative efforts from the independent record label Electro Swing Thing Records. Working with the production house has opened new destinations for the two terrific musicians who aspire to be a global sensation.

Tony Wellin is a well-renowned DJ and music producer who has taken his music to higher ground with years' persistence. He was accidentally introduced to the world of instrumental and dance music in the year 2012. He spent most of his years in Rome, and then he tried to bridge the huge distance between the country of the ancient culture and the European musicscape. Currently, he is thriving on his success with the support from the nocturnal addicts of EDM and dance music of Naples. He honed up his skills of creating new sounds by mixing luxurious aspects of various genres and landed with a lucrative offer from Electro Swing Thing Records.

Alessa Ray is a pop singer, songwriter, and producer from Paraguay who is currently setting up an empire of music lovers in a different destination, Los Angeles. Her debut track "Mamacita" captures her fluent skills of explaining beauty in Spanish and English. The latest dance number 'Lockdown with Me' is a stellar example of dark swing music that is backed up by the grooves of chilling Electronica.
