Capel Green Documentary Feature Length Film featuring dramatisation scenes

A landed craft, strange beings, floating red spheres, beams shone down into Weapons Storage Areas and UFOs witnessed by numerous US Air Force Personnel as well as civilians!

Capel Green is a feature length documentary film which promises to reveal more detail than ever regarding what actually happened in and around Rendlesham Forest and the twin air bases of Bentwaters and Woodbridge in Suffolk, England at the end of December in 1980.

With the 40 Year anniversary taking place on December 26th 2020, the movie is set for release in it's anniversary year and will look closely at the myriad of unidentified aerial phenomena and related incidents which actually took place over several nights, including forerunner events. The precise details of the UFO activity have mostly been kept a secret from the public and there is so much misinformation and skewed representation of facts in existence on the internet that the producers of Capel Green decided it was time to research these incidents thoroughly. This involved getting in touch with as many actual military witnesses as possible. Production commenced in the summer of 2017, with film-maker Dion M. Johnson producing/editing/directing the film and with the assistance of Gary Heseltine, a former police detective (involved in investigating the London terror attacks of 2005) brought in as the film's lead researcher, details soon emerged of a far more wide ranging catalogue of details to these incidents. One key witness we interviewed in the USA actually led to another new witness (totally unheard of to the public prior) being interviewed and he had incredible knowledge and detail of what happened, and so it simply grew and grew from there.

The movie features accurate dramatisation scenes which will re-enact the incidents based upon the detailed descriptions given by military and civilian witnesses from the time and the focus is to scrutinise the facts and reveal the truth about what happened there according to genuine witnesses. The film is being produced by a predominantly British cast and crew but also features some production crew from around the world.

While the Covid-19 pandemic has certainly affected the release date of the film, it also grew into something far bigger than we originally envisaged as more and more military witnesses came forward with their individual witness testimony.

There will be details revealed which many people have absolutely no idea about, including some genuine scientific research. We counted all of the new revelations which will be revealed in the film about these incidents, and the tally comes in at over 40! We are not even naming those new (never seen on camera before) military witnesses because the new information is so important and exclusive to what has been uncovered by the new research.

Several people have asked us why the film is called Capel Green? That's a great question. Capel Green is simply a name which relates to the area of farmer's fields which are situated just beyond the eastern perimeter of Rendlesham Forest. While pinpointing small hamlets and villages is often not precise enough, the three closest are called Tangham (actually in the forest), Butley Abbey and Capel St Andrew and they all triangulate the area known as Capel Green. This location appears to be where the majority of UFO activity (as well as a host of unexplained phenomena) took place during the 1980 incidents. And it is this geographic area of farmland called 'Capel Green' which gives our film its title. Some of the locals (who have lived in the area for generations) kindly got in touch with us and pointed out that they also call this area of farmland 'The Clods', not to be confused with The Clumps which is a name of a road near Butley village. We found, after careful research looking at several old maps from 1895 to 1946, that exact piece of land was most definitely called Capel Green for a very long time. Therefore, we decided that Capel Green was the most accurate description of this precise geographic area. Also Larry Warren, the original military whistle-blower to the Rendlesham Forest events, has been publicly describing the area (from his sighting) as Capel Green for decades. With the 40th anniversary of the Rendlesham Forest incidents, we want to assure you that we do aim to have the film ready during its anniversary year.
