

7-Year-Old Writes Children's Book With Mother During Quarantine

San Diego, Jan 5, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - After traveling domestically and internationally, the inspiration behind 'Slothee Wants Coffee' comes from the love of exploration (and coffee)! Written by first-time authors Nikki Pezzopane and 7-year-old Cameron Fica, Slothee and Slothee's mom represent that relationship and desire to encourage learning through discovery

In Slothee Wants Coffee, Slothee travels from Costa Rica to Brazil, Colombia, Indonesia, Ethiopia, and Hawaii in search of the perfect cup of coffee. On the way, he meets new friends and learns about coffee and culture. This book is on an educational, yet fun adventure.

Slothee Wants Coffee is the first of the Slothee and Friends books. These books will guide children, and adults alike, through worldly adventures, learning about different cultures and making friends. Future books will include more coffee explorations, surfing adventures, and more.

Slothee Wants Coffee is currently available for pre-order and has been awarded a “Project We Love” on Kickstarter: <https://www.kickstarter.com/projects/slotheewantscoffee/slothee-wants-coffee>

Nikki is originally from Metro Detroit but moved to Arizona in high school. She attended Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff, receiving a Bachelor's in Criminal Justice and Criminology. Nikki also earned a Master's in Forensic Psychology from Argosy University. However, she realized her heart wasn't with her degree path and took a different route in life by starting a Digital Marketing/Social Media Management company in 2014. She also has a passion for travel, having traveled to 38 states and 16 countries.

Cameron has a passion for traveling and went on an airplane for the first time at 3-months old. He is almost 8-years old, has lived in 3 states, and traveled to 14 countries and 22 states. Cameron loves sloths and came up with the idea of Slothee Loves Coffee during a trip to Costa Rica. He also loves playing on the beach, science experiments, and playing Roblox. They currently live in San Diego, California.
