

Dakota Matos Launches 12 Stories in the Horror and Children Niche

California, San Francisco, Jan 27, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Dakota Matos, prolific author of a dozen stories, has expanded his repertoire to include both adult horror and children's works. He was first inspired to write after realizing that stories were developing in his mind throughout his day-to-day life as he interacted with the dark realities of our world. Writing became a full-blown passion for Matos in 2019 after he read the works of J. R. R. Tolkien.

In horror, Matos's work is intended for an adult audience. Fans of a broad variety of subgenres will appreciate Matos's gritty plots, unnerving environments, and speculative elements. When the Night Winds Blow juxtaposes the wonder and joy of the holidays with one melancholy man's search for happiness at a small mountain lodge in Maryland. In Spring, Matos introduces a group of students who begin to notice abnormal things happening around them whenever The Flickering Light, an unknown phenomenon, appears in the area.

Matos's children's fiction is appropriate for an upper middle grade and young adult audience. He explores themes of belongingness, acceptance, and the challenge of growing up that will resonate with many young readers. The Students is a two-part story that follows seven students who enroll in the same boarding school, where they must learn how to be successful in their new home.

Matos hopes that his work will allow him to connect with readers and share his thoughts, both overt and subtle, through his writing.

Dakota Matos is an author residing in Maryland currently. He practices writing horror but is looking to expand to other genres of literature. For questions revolving around content, please e-mail him at dakota.matos@yahoo.com. Free versions of his stories are available at <https://www.wattpad.com/user/DakotaMatos> For help with editing, please visit his Etsy page: DakotaIWriting. To follow his Twitter, please visit @matos_page.

Media Contact

Dabb Media

charlotte.s@dabb.media

1-415-212-8011

338 Bryant St

Source : Dakota Matos

See on IssueWire