

Tiktok Sensation Larray sends Twitter wild with Oli London “Blonde George” photo

Dr. Phil Star Oli London & gamer GeorgeNotFound trend on Twitter USA after Tiktok Star Larray posts Hilarious “Blonde George” Photo

larri
@larrayxo

@GeorgeNootFound

California, Los Angeles, Feb 19, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Tiktok sensation, Larray, one of Tiktoks biggest and most followed stars, with a staggering 22 million followers, last night tweeted a photo taken from a famous gamer and Twitch star GeorgeNotFound's Minecraft Livestream which featured a hilarious photo of a plastic surgery altered face.

Twitter users went into a frenzy in response, trending 'Blonde George' in the USA along with the accompanying trend 'Oli London' after users joked that the image looked more like E! Botched star Oli London than George.

The joke started when Larray posted the screengrab of Oli London who famously had 15 plastic surgery procedures to resemble kpop singer Jimin of BTS. Users were quick to start a fierce debate on the social media platform with many saying the image was definitely not GeorgeNotFound and was 100% Oli.

24-year-old George has quickly risen to prominence in the last year across social media with an incredible 6.1 million subscribers and is beloved by fans who watch his mine-craft live streaming videos. He has become a regular trending topic on Twitter with many fans enjoying his comical and engaging gaming videos.

In response to the Twitter trends, TV personality Oli London quickly jumped on the trend to deny it was him in the photos saying "I am not blonde George" and "I want to clear things up. It's definitely not me in the photo".

Media Contact

Entertainment PR

shop@olilondon.com

Source : Entertainment PR

See on IssueWire