

Congratulations to Envorso Senior Advisory team member Michael Angiulo.

Senior Advisor Michael Angiulo achieves his Juris Doctor degree to add to his world leading technology and innovation experience available to Envorso clients.

Michigan, Detroit, Apr 20, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Envorso – leading technology and innovation advisory, research and the delivery firm is proud to congratulate Michael Angiulo on his Juris Doctor law degree award from the University of Washington law school.

Angiulo has to date had an incredible career and set of experiences that Envorso clients can access. He spent twenty-five years with Microsoft, his first engagement working directly on a project for Bill Gates. His experience as an engineering manager and Corporate Vice President for products including Xbox, Surface, cloud artificial intelligence technologies, Windows PCs, and Microsoft Outlook is invaluable to all technology-dependent organizations worldwide. Now with his law qualifications and legal experience he is working on intellectual property and product liability (both of which are increasingly relevant to Envorso clients).

His deep expertise and experience in technology leadership cover many initiatives that have changed the whole world and he is now able to add the new expert lens of the law and how it relates to technology of the future to that skill set.

“Envorso clients understand the need for expertise and experience to help them achieve the outcomes they demand across business-changing initiatives that are pushing the limits of their internal teams. Using Envorso’s resources to accelerate and execute the client’s visions ensure the outcomes are driven to succeed,” said Michael.

“Envorso is proud to have Michael on the team. I cannot stress the importance of deep experience and knowledge enough when it comes to clients attempting to rapidly change their products and services. Our global Envorso team is carefully selected to deliver the best results to every single client that chooses to engage with our resources”, said Envorso CEO Scott Tobin.

Envorso brings an entrepreneurial perspective and the agility of a start-up mindset to bear on our client's challenges. We help our client teams make the leap from the constraints of old paradigms to the promise of new opportunities.

Envorso is fluent and flexible across a broad landscape of organizations – jump-start to Fortune 100, emerging to mature, family-owned to global multinational. Envorso leads when called upon or integrates seamlessly with our client internal teams when that best serves them.

Behind it, all is Envorso’s dedication to development and leadership celebrating diverse skills and informed values that drive a comprehensive approach to success for our clients, our teams, and the communities in which we live.
