California, San Francisco, Apr 10, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - All new YouTube creators finally have a chance to find the right tags and keywords for a video to rank higher in search results. YouTube tag generator is a free online tool from WizStudio which brings up over 50 keywords in 2 seconds.

This week, WizStudio CEO, Rob Potter announced a new milestone achieved as a full-function

YouTube tags extractor reaches its first 5 000 requests a day. Better known as YouTube tag generator, the tool allows creators to find a niche and topic-relevant keywords from the videos already topping YouTube search results for free.

Users are asked to enter the seed keyword which best describes a video. Then, based on that request the tool pulls out up to 100 broad match and specific long-tail keywords that can be used in YouTube descriptions, video transcripts, and titles, besides video tags. Once the keywords are found, users can automatically truncate the first 500 characters, or copy tags manually to the clipboard to use later on.

"Despite its name, our YouTube tag generator does not generate but analyses and extracts high-frequency YouTube tags from the videos already ranking high in search results. Broad match tags are usually one or two-word keywords that loosely describe the creator's niche and/or topic. But because they are highly competitive, it is difficult for new channels to rank for those keywords.

For this reason, popular videos often add long-tail keywords which narrow down the focus and help the search system serve your video to the right audience. For ease of use, the WizStudio tag generator marks the keyword usage by the intensity of red. The lighter the red, the more often the keyword is used in the top-ranking videos, and thus, the more relevant to a certain request it is.", Rob Potter explained the logic behind the keyword tool.

"Given the hard work of every developer and designer who stood behind our tag generator, I am not surprised the number of daily users is surging. Reaching a 5 000 daily requests milestone was just a matter of time, and we are celebrating it now. The hard work has paid off just 10 months after. That said, it won't be possible without creators testing the YouTube tag generator, reporting bugs, and leaving suggestions. This is why we attribute this achievement to both developers and regular users", added Rob Potter.
