

ZEITGEIST91© NFT Collection exceeds volume of 1 billion US dollars

The NFT collection ZEITGEIST91© with so far 171 NFT created from images taken within the first decade of the German reunification has meanwhile reached a volume of more than one billion USD.

Germany, Lower Saxony, Apr 24, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - The pictures, taken by bestselling authors Marita Vollborn and Vlad Georgescu, were taken in the period 1991 - 1996 on the territory of the former GDR and the new German states, respectively. These original pictures as NFTs cost 5000 Ether (ETH) each.

By setting the extremely high price, ZEITGEIST91© wants to show that money alone is not everything.

Since presumably not even financial heavyweights like Jeff Bezos or Elon Musk would be able to acquire the entire collection at this point in time, the total volume embodies an important insight: money alone is not able to completely rule the world after all.

ZEITGEIST91 at OpenSea™, therefore, sees itself as a cultural-political critique addressed to a society that, in the past 30 years after the fall of the Berlin Wall in Germany and the subsequent run on billions, has distanced itself from actual humanistic values.

The pictures are freely viewable at ZEITGEIST91.

They visualize the prevailing spirit at that time - a mix of the spirit of departure, resignation, and protest.

All pictures are protected by copyright and have never been published elsewhere except at ZEITGEIST 91.

Out of these NFT Marita and Vlad have created further exclusive NFT art - which is on sale for lower prices in bids.
