New York, New York City, May 27, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - Born in New York and raised in New Jersey, Dr. Tulsyan is a board-certified, fellowship-trained vascular surgeon who has been providing care to the residents of northern New Jersey for the last fifteen years. He recently opened Heritage Veins & Aesthetics in order to offer state-of-the-art vascular and aesthetic services in the Journal Square area of Jersey City.

Serving as the Medical Director and Chief Medical Officer, his focus on advanced minimally invasive vein treatment and medical aesthetics, all provided in a comfortable outpatient setting have attracted patients from New York and cities throughout Northern New Jersey to his facility. He strives to provide patients with access to the latest treatments and technology in a comfortable spa-like setting. His goal is to ensure that every patient receives exceptional care and has a pleasant patient experience.

A practicing vascular surgeon since 2007, Dr. Tulsyan is also a part of the team of professionals at Bergen Vein Clinic in Glen Rock, New Jersey. He has vast experience in complex aortic reconstruction, carotid artery disease, lower extremity arterial, and venous pathology, and management of dialysis access for patients with end-stage renal disease.

In 1992, before starting his work at the Bergen Vein Clinic, he entered the accelerated combined B.S.-M.D. Program at Stevens Institute of Technology & University of Medicine & Dentistry New Jersey. While matriculating at Stevens Institute, he was awarded the Chemical Quarter Century Club Scholarship, Edwin A. Stevens Scholarship, and Edward J. Bloustein Distinguished Scholarship. He graduated valedictorian, Summa Cum Laude, receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in 1995.

Thereafter, Dr. Tulsyan entered the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey in 1995 where he was awarded the Dean's Commendation for scholastic achievement and received his medical degree in 1999. He subsequently completed a residency in general surgery at Morristown Memorial Hospital in 2004. During his surgical residency, he was awarded the A. Lester Granet Humanitarian Award and twice awarded the James I. Filipone Jr., MD. Award. He then performed his research & vascular fellowship at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation in 2007.

Having earned the distinguished credential of Registered Physician in Vascular Interpretation (RPVI), he is board-certified in vascular surgery by the American Board of Surgery (ABS). The ABS is an independent, non-profit organization located in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, founded for the purpose of certifying surgeons who have met a defined standard of education, training, and knowledge.

In addition to being a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons (FACS), Dr. Tulsyan is affiliated with the American Academy of Family Physicians, the Society for Vascular Surgery, and the ABWM Foundation.

Licensed to practice medicine in New York and New Jersey, he is affiliated with Lenox Hill Hospital, Saint Barnabas Medical Center, and St. Joseph's University Medical Center.

Vascular surgery is a surgical subspecialty in which diseases of the vascular system, including the arteries, veins, and lymphatic circulation, are managed by medical therapy, minimally-invasive catheter procedures, and surgical reconstruction. A vascular surgeon diagnoses, treats, and manages conditions in the arteries and veins, also called the blood vessels. These specialists treat a range of health problems, from spider and varicose veins to life-threatening aneurysms, and can help patients manage chronic conditions throughout their lives.

Due to his extensive training and research experience, Dr. Tulsyan regularly is called on by companies to help in the development of new technologies and treatments. He has performed thousands of vein procedures and is one of the most highly trained and experienced vein specialists in New Jersey.

A prolific writer, he has also authored over 20 research articles published in peer-reviewed journals, as well as 2 individual book chapters on vascular surgery. Among his many service awards include “Patients Choice”, “Compassionate Doctor”, and “On-Time Doctor.”
