

Niece of Olphelia DeVore, Candice Strother DeVore-Mitchell follows in her aunt's footsteps . . .

Being a Strother, DeVore and Mitchell, Candy now leads her own television network, Faces of Rap Mothers®™, based off her iconic book series and celebrity marketing platform

District of Columbia, Washington, D.C, Sep 13, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - There's something about the Strother, Mitchell, and DeVore families . . . an inner drive to achieve while raising awareness and respect for unorthodoxy because it takes a little irreverence while maintaining one's belief in a higher power to achieve aspirations, goals, and dreams. To do so, the inclusion of a high degree of innovative visionary thinking remains part and participle in the delivery of a success-driven path others determine to follow. Candice Strother DeVore-Mitchell discovered her aunt's tenacity toward inclusion in worlds many find difficult to penetrate, and does so with her continuously generous smile.

So, what is "Faces of Rap Mothers®™"? What began as a fledgling YouTube Program experience with a handful of willful accolades continued as Candy Strother DeVore-Mitchell's passion. Due to an engaging enigmatic personality, Candice DeVore-Mitchell has continuously woven a blanket of collaboration among entertainment giants and nearly recognized registries, expressly among African Americans while increasingly expanding to a broader arena of inclusion with some push back by her original followers. However, Candy Strother DeVore-Mitchell manages to meld the melting pot of her "Faces of Rap Mothers" brand and image, which evolves in an upward spiral and features a lot of thankfulness to providence.

Members of the "Faces of Rap Mothers®™" range from hardcore rappers, to mainstream hip hop, to courtesans and jesters or comedians, to actresses and actors, and even progressive thinkers and students of life. The range and scope of participants who are most often "initially contributory members" of Candy's book series: 1) Faces of Rap Mothers®™, 2) Rap Mothers®™ Save the Day (children's), 3) Faces of Rap Mothers Fathers Editions®™, 4) Faces of Rap Mothers®™ Presents (musicians and entertainers) . . . move forward in time while embracing each element of Candy's success from concept, to YouTube, to book ideas to published works (Donnaink Publications - www.donnaink.com), to reality television, to mainstream radio inclusion, to multi-channel programming, to channel ownership, to Coachellas, and today . . . to television station ownership with what is becoming a diverse line-up . . . predominantly featuring up-and-coming rap and hip hop artisans joined by health and wellness experts; current events, entertainment gossip, book and education, spiritual, etc. programs slated for fall 2021. "Faces of Rap Mothers®™" contributors, supporters, sponsors, followers, fans, and even groupies, buttress Ms. DeVore-Mitchell's every stride toward her new horizons where no stone is left unturned.

Of course, amidst growth and expansion, is the reality series Faces of Rap Mothers®™ dramas where more than one participant suggests Candy's brand and image belong to them instead or should be identified as their vision, but Candy's unique blend of special sauces . . . seemingly derived from the Strother, DeVore, and Mitchell household lineage . . . bring together unique worlds of what would otherwise be separate silos of method and performance expansion and does so with a cohesive smattering where bravado and self-exploitation feature successful results - every participant's career thus far, when coupled with the Strother - DeVore - Mitchell acumen, has elevated as an outcropping of conjoining with Candy's vision and entertainment stream . . . perhaps with exception of her long-time friend and acquaintance Snoop Dogg.

The Faces of Rap Mothers®™ Television Station airs on Roku and is going to have scheduled media beginning 1 October 2021; at this time, the channel loops promo reels and excerpts from prior station programs, such as MJOWN Network and others . . . additionally, among Candice's entourage are Lena Moss (mother of Aaron Hall's daughter Kaloni Hall) and Nick Payne (Director of "Faces of Rap Mothers®™") - both also have some reach back to the DeVore family in their lineage and if appearances ascribe lineage - they are demonstrative of that fact.

So look forward to the "Faces of Rap Mothers®™" as an emerging brand and program network being made available for American and International entertainment consumption and remember "Candy" had an idea for each of you to enjoy.
