

Betty Moon Releases “Fear Takes Control”

The LA producer and songwriter pens an infectious new track perfectly fit for the Halloween season. The EDM driven single is available today on streaming platforms.

California, Los Angeles, Oct 15, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - Betty Moon has released her newest single “Fear Takes Control” today on Spotify and Apple Music. Fitting to release a song that suggests a classic horror movie, “Fear Takes Control” compliments the upcoming happenings surrounding Halloween. Moon also wants listeners to take the moody, electronic drenched track and add it to playlists everywhere.

The song comes off the heels of her May 2021 album ‘COSMICOMA’ which spawned singles such as “My Only One” and “Black Bloods”. “Fear Takes Control” is just the latest of new material planned for the California-based musician and studio producer, and creating this track for the darkest, and likely favorite holiday for the US is a natural and exciting move. “The track sets the tone, builds some anticipation, and has a trance-rooted pulse that will get those Halloween parties moving,” says Moon. Listen to the track now online and a special feature/preview of the track went live this week via (Website).
