Different professionals appointed by United Security Services

Armed security guards

A safe environment sometimes means a higher level of security with a professional guard carrying an armed weapon. Any establishment or personnel requiring the highest level of security can benefit from the most comprehensive service of armed security guards. Professional guards who carry lethal weapons are specially trained to prevent high-risk crimes and emergencies.

Unarmed security guards

Some desire security guards to secure their facility and provide a great experience to visitors. Unarmed security guards are experts in performing both. These professionals protect establishments and people by offering continuous patrolling and surveillance. In addition, they address visitors to organizations and their great communication skills are prominent in delivering a remarkable customer experience.

Mall security guards

Malls and retail stores welcome hundreds of visitors every day so compromising on security protocols isn't wise. Thus, guards are an integral part of these organizations to ensure the smooth functioning of the mall or retail store. Professional guards appointed at malls go through intense training to handle large groups of people efficiently. As a result, they are prominent in preventing criminal activities, shoplifting, and violence in the facility.

High-rise building security guards

High-rise security guards are the most hired professional guards by people who are serious about the safety of their businesses or homes. Sometimes, the importance of high-rise security guards goes unnoticed but these professionals work day and night to keep people, their businesses, and employees secure. Their service is outstanding in preventing theft, robbery, break-ins, and criminal attacks. Their presence improves any place's peace and sense of security.

Event security guards

Some events and occasions require temporary guards to improve the integrity of their event venue. Every manager who wants to enhance the security of their event's guests and VIPs never compromises with the importance of security services. These guards are trained to perform various activities, including assisting attendees and handling crowds. They are commonly found at significant events, such as parties, promotional events, corporate meetings, and entertainment venues.

Fire watch security guards

A fire threat is the most common conflict that can occur anytime, putting establishments and residents at high risk. Fire watch security guards provide clients with protection from fire outbreaks. They monitor the building, examine all fire tools, observe things that can cause fires, and offer any necessary fire security solutions. They are experts in identifying fire hazards and controlling them before they cause any harm to the building. In addition, they maintain a line of communication with emergency departments to take necessary actions at the right time.

Other Industries that United Security Services Serves

Apartment communities

Regardless of their size, the company offers the most-skilled apartment security guards to all properties in the counties of California. No matter how many units the property has and how much area it covers, our trained guards are efficient whenever you require them.

Construction sites

A company's construction site security guards protect your site, machines, tools, and workers from crime, theft, and vandalism. In addition, trained guards monitor the construction site and eliminate the risks of accidents that commonly occur.

Strike/union disputes

Strikes and disputes are the worst scenarios where employees get injured and assets get damaged. In such situations, the company's guards handle all difficulties with a proper plan and calm mind. Their expertise helps companies save millions of dollars that can be damaged by uproar and violence.

Warehouse security

A warehouse without physical force provides the chance of theft and vandalism. Professional guards specially trained to protect a warehouse assure the safety of your goods by monitoring it 24*7. In addition, they maintain logs and records to keep track of your stored material. Their presence ensures that goods are safe and the owner can peacefully concentrate on other business activities.

Professional guards provided by United Security Services pass all standard requirement checks of security personnel. We believe in customer satisfaction by developing a peaceful environment for our clients. Visit our website to know more about our company.
