

Get to know Family Physician Dr. Janine Talty, who serves patients in Roanoke, Virginia and nation-wide.

Janine Talty, DO, a Integrative Medicine Family Physician in Private Practice Specializing in a Functional Approach to Diagnosing and Treating Complex Illness and Injury.

New York City, New York Dec 14, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - An excellent board-certified family physician with certification in Osteopathic Manual Medicine and Orthopedic Medicine. Dr. Talty sees patients at her private practice in Roanoke, Virginia. She has an extraordinary ability to listen, to hear, and to understand the patients who come seeking relief from chronic illness and pain.

Pertaining to her educational pursuits, she graduated with her Bachelor of Science degree in Sports Medicine from San Jose State University, her Master of Public Health degree from the University of Illinois at Chicago, School of Public Health. She earned her Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree from Des Moines University. She completed her one-year internship and a three-year combined residency in family medicine, and fellowship in Clinical Biomechanics/OMM at Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Passionate about her profession, the doctor is board-certified in family medicine by the American Osteopathic Board of Family Physicians (AOBFP). The AOBFP is an organization that provides board certification to qualified osteopathic physicians who specialize in delivering comprehensive primary care for patients of all ages, genders, and addressing all parts of the body.

Moreover, she holds certifications in Manual Medicine, Muscle Energy Techniques, Myofascial Release, Strain - Counterstrain, Function Indirect Technique, Craniosacral Techniques, Direction Action Thrust, Exercise Prescription, and Pilates Therapeutic Rehabilitation and Orthopedic Medicine.

Professionally, Dr. Talty is an active member of the American Osteopathic Association, the American College of Osteopathic Family Physicians, is a past and current Board Member, frequent lecturer/instructor, and international instructor for the American Association of Orthopedic Medicine.

Among her other roles, she serves as a Clinical Assistant Professor at Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine and is the past Medical Director of the Wellness & Rehabilitation Center in Watsonville, California.

Dr. Talty has subspecialized far beyond general Family medicine. She often states that she is suffering from a terminal disease called “malignant curiosity.” This has led her to keep asking “why?” Why is this patient still ill or in pain and takes on the challenge to figure out the underlying causes of their ongoing dysfunction? This has led her from solving complex orthopedic pain conditions to diagnosing and treating often their underlying root cause being Lyme disease and mold illness. She incorporates various modalities to help the body restore its ability to heal itself and regain homeostasis by balancing the mechanics of the physical motor system with Osteopathic Manual Medicine, sometimes using prolotherapy to stabilize joints and soft tissues, restoring bio-identical hormone balance, effective medical weight-loss, exercise prescription, and nutritional counseling.

She threatens to put a sign above her clinic entry door that reads “Hogwarts.” By the time most patients get to her, they have exhausted traditional medical options without a working diagnosis. She spends the time with discerning skills of questioning and examination along with laboratory evaluation to zero in on the underlying cause.
