New York City, New York Dec 22, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - An excellent critical care medicine specialist, Dr. Lindauer is affiliated with FirstHealth of the Carolinas.

FirstHealth of the Carolinas is a private, not-for-profit health care network, headquartered in Pinehurst,

North Carolina. Its 5,300 employees serve 15 counties in the mid-Carolinas. Licensed for four hospitals with 610 beds, it demonstrates a commitment to treating the whole patient and to providing quality health care for the entire community – especially those in need.

In regards to her educational background, Dr. Lindauer earned her medical degree from the SUNY at Stony Brook School of Medicine. She then went on to complete her internship and residency at North Shore University Hospital, and her fellowship at the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center.

Subsequent to her education, the doctor attained board certification in critical care medicine, pulmonary disease, and internal medicine by the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM). The ABIM is a physician-led, non-profit, independent evaluation organization driven by doctors who want to achieve higher standards for better care in a rapidly changing world.

Holding a license to practice medicine in North Carolina, she can be found on staff at Moore Regional Hospital, Moore Regional Hospital-Hoke, and Moore Regional Hospital-Richmond.

Intensive care medicine also called critical care medicine, is a medical specialty that deals with seriously or critically ill patients who have, are at risk of, or are recovering from conditions that may be life-threatening. Critical care specialists provide around-the-clock care in highly-stressful situations within intensive care units (ICUs) in hospitals or trauma centers to the most seriously injured or ill patients.
