kolkata, West bengal Dec 10, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - For its excellent performance in Innovation activities in the period 2020-21, the Institution Innovation Council of Meghnad Saha Institute of Technology (IIC-MSIT), a B-tech college in Kolkata, received a four-star rating from the Institution's Innovation Council, the Ministry of Education's Innovation Cell (Government of India), and the All-India Council for Technical Education (AICTE).

The big announcement by the Centre was made on December 1. Meghnad Saha Institute of Technology, one of eastern India's top 20 private engineering colleges, got elevated to a different level with this honour.

The success of MSIT's IIC has elated all of the Institute's stakeholders. This achievement was the result of a year of hard work by the Cell, as well as all of the students, faculty members, and alumni throughout the world, who was the driving force behind this success, stated Ankur Ganguly, MSIT's principal.

Every year, the Institution's Innovation Council (Ministry of Education Initiative) announces the yearly performance evaluation of all institutions and universities based on the success of their IICs. And the IIC-MSIT score is 94.17 out of 100.

The Institute is gearing up so that they can maintain this kind of success in the forthcoming years, Ganguly stated. Innovation is a continuous process, and motivated students and their mentors are working tirelessly to bring MSIT to the forefront of global innovation.

Under the Techno India Group, Meghnad Saha Institute of Technology (MSIT) is one of the best private engineering colleges in Kolkata. On September 5, 2001, it set out on its quest for excellence. The college has built a reputation for providing quality engineering and management education to aspiring engineers and managers over the previous two decades. The Institute has a cutting-edge infrastructure that allows for the most efficient deployment of resources to each student in technical education. JEE and JEE (Main) scores are used to admit top candidates to engineering programmes; JECA score is used for MCA programmes, and GATE/PGET score is used for MTech programmes. Faculty members are highly qualified, research-oriented, active, and devoted. MSIT promotes and fosters co-curricular and extracurricular activities among students for their overall development. They organise seminars, tech talks/workshops, tech fests, and cultural fests, among other things, from time to time. This prepares the students for future life after college.

In 2019, Meghnad Saha Institute of Technology, one of the top engineering colleges in West Bengal, established the Institution Innovation Council.
